DOROTHY TENNANT DIES
FROM INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Nine-year-old Child Had Shown
Symptoms of the Disease Since Tuesday.

The death of Dorothy Tennant, the nine-year-old daughter of Postmaster and Mrs. Jared H. Tennant, of Hebron, occurred Thursday morning at 4:30. Dr. C. E. Pendleton, health officer for the town of Hebron, was called in the case Saturday, when the child showed signs of a fever, but no signs of paralysis were then noticeable. On Tuesday afternoon the child became unconscious and the attending physician thought a consultation of physicians should be held. This was done Wednesday noon when Doctors O'Neil, Willimantic; Fox, Montville, and Howland, of Colchester, were called in to consult with Dr. Pendleton. They found that paralysis had set in to such a degree that all hope of the little girl recovering was given up. The child remained unconscious until the end.

It is not known how or where the child contracted the disease as the other case in that vicinity, at the Kessman home, is under strict quarantine.

Dorothy Tennant is one of a family of five children and her death is the third in the last four days in this part of the state.

ASKING MAYOR QUESTIONS.
People Inquire About Health Regulations—Communication From Government Specialist.

Dr. Charles E. Banks, of the United States public health service, has sent a circular to the health officers of the various towns in Connecticut who have forbidden children from New York to come into them, stating that owing to their stand he will issue no more information to these towns at this time. Dr. Banks, health officer for Willimantic, received the following communication from Dr. Banks Thursday morning:

"In view of the embargo placed by you in your circular against children under sixteen years of age, who are residents of New York city, entering your town, I shall issue no more certificates advising you on their travel. It is useless for me to give you the information under the circumstances. When you have made a change in your rules to conform to communities in other states, similarly situated, and will advise me of same, I will resume notification."

Major Dunn stated Thursday at-noon that he had been busy all that day answering telephone inquiries from people who had children and were thinking of going away or back to their homes, and others, inquiring whether or not people with children could visit in this city. The mayor told the inquirers that there is no objection to people coming from Willimantic with their children but children from the infected districts are not wanted in this city.

Dr. Jenkins found that two children from Lebanon were coming into this city daily and at once notified them that they must remain away from here or action would be taken against them.

PLAINFIELD

New York Automobile Nearly Runs Into Train at Dangerous French's Crossing—Funeral of Rosanna Allard—Big Tug of War Anticipated.

At French's crossing there was another automobile accident Wednesday morning when a New York party crashed into a shed at the side of the crossing in order to avoid hitting the 7:15 train from Willimantic bound for Providence. The driver of the automobile, a Hudson touring car, said at a local garage that he was on his way from Providence to Plainfield and was traveling along near French's crossing at a moderate rate. He was utterly ignorant of there being a crossing at this spot and the first he knew of it was when he saw the train approaching. He immediately swung into the embankment and crashed into the shed and meeting death. The car was only a few feet from the track after the driver swung it towards the embankment.

The car was damaged only slightly and no one in the automobile was injured. The occupants of the machine were a man and his wife and their child.

This recent accident recalls the frightful one which occurred when Arthur E. Parks of Fall River, Mass., and Miss Anna Cowling of Providence were instantly killed when Parks' powerful roadster crashed into a locomotive. Parks was going north, while the other party was going south.

Approaching the crossing on the north side, one finds it exceedingly difficult to perceive whether a train is approaching, owing to a sharp and dangerous bend no more than 100 yards from the crossing. The driver of the Hudson car, who was a stranger in this section, had this disadvantage.

The New York man was also ignorant that the signal bells were ringing. This is one of the most dangerous of railroad crossings.

Kennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SEAMEN OF GREAT LAKES GET RAISE IN WAGES
Carriers' Association Grants Them $10 More Per Month.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 3.—Recognizing business conditions generally, the board of directors of the Lake Carriers' Association, at its regular meeting held this afternoon, decided to make a horizontal advance of $10 per month in the wages of men aboard ships below the grade of licensed officers, effective August first.

It was also recommended that the question of additional remuneration for licensed officers be taken up at a later meeting of vessel owners and that just recognition be given them for their marked efficiency under the strain of a heavy freight movement and during the unusual period of hot weather. This recognition will probably take the form of a distribution of earnings among the licensed officers at the close of the season. It was also decided to work the coal passers in three watches on all the boats insofar as it is practical to do so and to regard them as part of the engineers' department.

POULTRY RAISER VICTIM OF CONFIDENCE GAME

Supposed He Was Buying Good Dollars for 33 1-3 Cents—Lost $560.

Stamford, Conn., Aug. 3.—Antonio Sureveck, who raises poultry for the market in Great Barrington, Mass., was given a helping hand by the police today so that he could get back to his farm, although without $560 which he had brought here yesterday. Sureveck had been the victim of a confidence game.

Last Sunday Sureveck was called upon by two men, one a Poleander and the other not of that nationality, who claimed to be searching for a runaway girl. In the course of conversation Sureveck told how he was trying to raise $2,000 with which to buy out his partner. One of the men said he had a relative in the treasury department who bought all the dollars he needed at 33 1-3 cents each, and he offered to provide $2,000 in dollar bills for $560 in other cash if Sureveck had that amount. It was arranged that Sureveck should come to Stamford to get the two thousand dollar bills. He arrived yesterday and met the men. They bought a suit case and placed in it four rolls of bills. The outside wrapper of each was a real dollar.

The suit case was turned over to Sureveck after he had paid the $560 he had brought down. The men took the key and asked Sureveck to wait until they returned. The wait was several hours long and then Sureveck went to the station to buy a railroad ticket home. He tried open the case and found that each roll was of paper with a dollar on the outside.

The police gave the man a night's lodging and his carfare home.

ITALY HAS ABROGATED TREATY WITH GERMANY

Commercial Pact Would Not Have Expired Until Next Year.

Amsterdam, via London, Aug. 3, 10:50 p. m.—A despatch to Handelsblad from Berlin says Italy has given notice to Germany of the termination of the German-Italian commercial treaty of 1901 which would have expired at the end of 1917.

A despatch from Paris last Tuesday quoted the Petit Parisien as saying that it understood that Italy had denounced the commercial treaty with Germany, thereby leaving the way clear for a declaration of hostilities between Italy and Germany. The newspaper said also that the existence of the treaty was the only reason which had prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy.
